RAILWAY WAGES ARE PAID $400,000,000

Board's Decision Effective July 1; All Classes Affected.

Chicago, May 31.—An estimated $400,000,000 will be slashed from the nation's railway wage bill when an order cutting wages an average of 12 per cent. to be handed down tomorrow by the United States Railroad Labor Board, becomes effective July 1. The order affects members of thirty-one labor organizations employed on 104 railroads.

While the decrease is specifically applied only to the roads whose cases have been heard by the board, the decision says it may later be applied to any other road asking a hearing under the provisions of the Esch-Cummings transportation act.

Percentages of reductions computed by members of the board gave the average of 12 per cent. and the same source estimated the annual reduction in wages at approximately $400,000,000.

Labor Recently Reclassified.

The Railroad Labor Board recently reclassified the various employees connected with railway operations, and this, it was pointed out, may have some effect on labor costs.

The board also, a few weeks ago, ordered abrogation of the national working agreements, to become effective July 1. At the hearing on the petition for abrogation of these agreements, railroad witnesses estimated savings in labor cost as high as $300,000,000 annually. This would be in addition to the saving possible through the current wage reduction decision.

The decision grants reductions varying from 5 to 13 cents an hour, or from 5 to 18 per cent. and in the case of section laborers completely wipes out the increase granted that class of employees by the $600,000,000 wage award of July 20, 1920. For section men the reduction was approximately 18 per cent. Switchmen and shop crafts receive a 9 per cent. reduction while the train service men were cut approximately 7 per cent. Car repairers were cut about 10 per cent.

Common labor pay, over which the railroads made their hardest fight, is to be reduced 6 to 8 1/2 cents an hour, cutting freight truckers' average monthly wages to $97.10 and track laborers to $77.11. This new schedule gives section men an average daily wage of $3.02 for an eight-hour day, although considerable testimony offered by the roads, particularly in the South, showed common labor wages as low as $1.50 for a ten-hour day.

Eight Cents an Hour Cut.

Shop crafts employees and train and engine service men, except those in passenger service, are reduced 8 cents an hour. Construction and section foremen are reduced 10 cents an hour.

Passenger and freight engineers who received increases of 10 and 13 cents an hour under the 1920 award are to be cut 6 and 8 cents an hour, respectively. Passenger and freight conductors who received increases of 12 1/2 and 13 cents in 1920 are cut 7 1/2 and 8 cents, respectively by the new schedule.

Train dispatchers and yardmasters whose monthly earnings at present average $260 to $270 are cut 8 cents an hour.

The smallest reduction will apply to office boys and other employees under 18 years old, who will receive 5 cents an hour less after July 1.

Clerks are reclassified so that entering clerks, usually young men and women of 18 to 20 years of age, will receive a monthly salary of $67.50 for the first six months and $77.50 for the second six months of service. Clerks with less than one year's experience now receive $120.

Considered Victory For Men.

In labor circles generally the action of the labor board in fixing the decrease at an average of 12 per cent. was regarded as a victory for the men, as the railroads had sought a reduction of at least 25 per cent.

One official stated it had been feared by the labor organizations that the reduction would be greater as the wage reduction made some time ago by the United States Steel Corporation of 20 per cent. had been considered as a possible precedent, particularly as it had been made while the board was considering the cases affected by the new order.

Railroad executives, who are here attending hearings of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, declined to comment tonight on the announcement. They indicated they wished to study the text of the order before making a statement.

The American Legion team of Leitchfield came down to McHenry and crossed bats with the McHenry Majestics on Sunday afternoon. While the Majestics only secured a few hits off the delivery of the Legion pitcher, at the close of the game the scores stood 9 to 4 in favor of the Majestics. RIOTING IN TULSA CAUSES 175 DEATHS

Military in Control; 6,000 Negroes in Stockade Guarded by State Troops.

Itace war and rioting in the city of Tulsa, Okla., is said to have caused the death of 164 negroes and 9 white persons. The trouble is said to have been precipitated over a negro arrested under charges of assault. In addition to the lives lost ten blocks in the negro section have been destroyed by fire. The latest reports were to the effect that comparative order had been restored as armed troops patrolled the city. The negro prisoner whom it is charged the blacks undertook to rescue, and which is said to have produced the rioting and bloodshed, has been removed to some other point and concealed.

FORDSVILLE MOPS UP ON LOCAL BALL LUNCH

Fordsville journeyed to this place Sunday and took the measure of the local nine by the score of 8 to 5. Aside from Berry Dudley Walker's steal of home and the unusual wrangling and kicking on decisions of the Umps, the fans present went thru the game almost thrillless. Batteries were, for Fordsville, Boorman and Hoarman; for Hartford, Bozarth and Turner.

Fans do not pay their little two bits with the expectation of seeing big league ball on our countryside diamonds, but when the teams give the best that in them lies, and deport themselves in a manner as becomes good sports, approval of the fans is always attached. Delays such as was occasioned by the players, in their uncalculated wrangling of Sunday hurts the game and is sure to "jinx" it.

A batted ball in some manner, came thru the grandstand striking Miss Naomi Maple in the chest, which for a few minutes took her breath, but she soon recovered and no damage resulted.

WORLD DOES HONOR TO DEAD VETERANS

Harding At Arlington; Ja- pan Represented In Exercises.

Washington, May 30.—The national capital's memorial ceremonies for American war dead were colored by a new touch of international significance today at services in Arlington Cemetery under the lead of President Harding.

Speaking in the Arlington Amphitheater to veterans of three wars and to a distinguished company of officials and diplomats Mr. Harding rededicated the nation to the cause of freedom and civilization and promised that it never would fail to measure up to every demand presented to it in behalf of civilization. By striking across the sea in the World War, he declared America had sanctified again its faith in free institutions for peoples everywhere.

"Wherever men are free," said Mr. Harding, "they are wont to give thought to our country's services in freedom's cause. Today the sons and daughters of other lands are placing with loving hands their laurels on American graves. Our Memorial Day is become an international occasion."

British Envoy Pays Tribute.

At the conclusion of the address Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, seconded the sentiment by placing on the American flag beside Mr. Harding a wreath of roses presented by the people of the United Kingdom and its dominions "in undimmed memory of the sacrifices that America has made for individual liberty."

In special reference to the World War, Mr. Harding declared that America had opened the door to free institutions, even in the countries against which it fought, and had given opportunity of planning democracies where absolutism had held sway, of making the people supreme.

He added that the troubled state of conditions abroad still made it doubtful whether the vanquished peoples would accept that opportunity and would "pay the price required to maintain the freedom to which the door has been opened."

The exercises at Arlington, with their background of thousands of flagdraped graves, formed the center of the capital's Memorial Day ceremonies, though various smaller gatherings were held in other parts of the city.

During the day a parade of veterans, led by Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, was reviewed by Mr. and Mrs. Harding from the steps of the Executive offices, and many thousands onraged to Arlington and other cemeteries to pay their tribute to the dead.

One unusual feature was a gathering of survivors of the Naval Academy class of 1881 to decorate the graves of their dead classmates. Admiral Baron Sotokichi Uru of the Japanese, graduate of the academy, was among those who attended, having come to this country particularly for the occasion and for a class reunion tomorrow at Annapolis.

Presentation of the memorial wreath by Ambassador Geddes was not a part of the pre-arranged programme for the Arlington ceremonies his request for permission to make the offering having reached officials in charge just before Mr. Harding began speaking. The Marine Band, seated on the platform, rendered "God save the King" when the Ambassador came forward to speak.

"As Ambassador of my King, King George V," said Sir Auckland, "as representative in this republic of his Government throughout the world; in the name of the people of the United Kingdom, of the British dominions and dependencies of the Emperor of India, of British communities on every continent and on the islands of all the seas; in token of their admiration for the gallantry and devotion of America's sons and daughters in the great war; in evidence of their sympathy for America, who today mourns and glorifies her dead and in undimmed memory of the sacrifices that America has made for individual liberty, with your permission, Mr. President, I lay this wreath upon the flag of America."

HOW TO FOOT TO STABILIZE DOLLAR

Currency Unit Based On Wares As Crisis Preventive.

Washington, May 28.—Organization of the State Money League, designed to foster interest and promote establishment of a system of preventing fluctuations in the buying power of the dollar, was completed here today by financial men and economists favoring the policy.

A resolution was adopted pledging membership to work for the creation of a stable currency, with exchange value and purchasing power not subject to violent fluctuations which disrupt the whole order of business and industry and remove the strongest incentive to human labor, thrift and efficiency.

Jeremiah W. Jenks, chairman of the board of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, was elected president and L. S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American Institute; H. C. Wallace, Jr. and Robert D. Kent, Pasadena, N. J., were elected vice presidents.

Three Address Meeting.

Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale University, chief proponent of one plan for stabilizing money values, Mr. Wallace and Mr. Kent were among speakers who addressed the general meeting.

Mr. Kent advocated a plan for the creation of a "commodity dollar" unit of currency for the United States which would purchase a constant amount of goods, while Professor Fisher urged a Government procedure for increasing the amount of gold in circulation to such a point in case of rising prices and decreasing it in periods of falling prices.

"The immediate prospect is not of any undervalued depreciation, but rather a prolonged appreciation of the dollar similar to the movement after the Civil War," Dr. Fisher said.

Foresees New Discontent.

"I fear our present system, such as it is, will give us every reason to fear in ensuing decades, after the war's rebound of prices from their present low level will mean falling prices, low profits, depression of business, unemployment and a new discontent in which the luckless object of popular wrath will be the money lender and banker, although the real enemy will be the appreciating dollar. It will arrest peace-time swings of the value level which is the real purpose of stabilization."

Mr. Wallace, who is the son of the secretary of Agriculture, warned that this country will witness a severe crisis with dangers of another era of populism on the farms during the next eighteen months unless "sound" money is instituted.

"Last year the average renter had nothing left as a return for his labor," Mr. Wallace declared, "the average return being less than 5 cents an hour."

Booze Is Not a Good Cure.

(From the Ames Iowa Intelligencer)

When a man comes to you all doubled up with pain and declares he will die in your presence unless you procure him a drink of whisky, send him to a doctor or else give him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is a mistaken notion among a whole lot of people that booze is the best remedy for colic and stomach ache.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XI.—NEW YORK

THE STORY of New York should rightly begin with 1524, eighty-five years before Henry Hudson's voyage in his little boat, the Half Moon, up the river which now bears his name. For at that early date an Italian navigator, Verrazano, exploring for France, sailed into New York bay. This first visit to New York made little stir and was soon forgotten, and it was Hudson's rediscovery which tempted the Dutch to send over colonists and obtain for the Dutch West India company a monopoly of the Dutch fur trade in America. The new colony which was started in 1623 called its territory New Netherlands, after its mother country, and their principal city New Amsterdam. It is interesting to reflect that Manhattan Island, which is now New York city, was purchased from the Indians for $24 worth of beads and ribbons. Even in its earliest days the settlement on Manhattan Island was cosmopolitan. In 1643 it is reported that eighteen different languages were spoken there. In 1664 the English captured New Netherlands, and King Charles II presented the colony to his brother, the duke of York, who was later King James II, and its name was then changed to New York.

New York played a leading part in the formation of the United States. It was Alexander Hamilton who was New York's representative in framing the Constitution and it was New York city which was selected as the first capital of the new Union, where Washington was inaugurated the first president. Ever since the Empire state, as New York is sometimes called, has held the deciding voice in presidential elections. Though its size is only 49,204 square miles, not quite half way in the list of states according to area, its great population gives New York forty-five presidential electors, the largest number of any of the states.

FILIPINO URGES EDUCATING RACE

Doctor Declares Islanders Must Broaden Views.

Manila, P. I., April 10.—The Filipinos, in their national life, have followed two types of civilization—the religious type and the political—declared Dr. Trinidad H. Pardo, de Taverna, native of the Philippines and one of the Philippine members of the Philippine Commission appointed by the President of the United States in 1901, in an address at the eleventh annual commencement of the University of the Philippines.

He said that he would attempt to show that the present generation of Filipinos gives so much consideration to the political aspect of their lives that social interests are forgotten. He asserted that politics predominate in their social life at present just as religion predominated in the past. He advocated an education that conforms with the present mould of progress and enlightenment, not an education to preserve national things.

"We Filipinos should not continue our former errors," he said. "Instead of that narrow, false and primitive conception we should adopt a broader, more just and more certain criterion of 'people' or 'nation.' We are the result of the union and fusion of very different races, and altho the Malay race enters in the combination to a great extent, yet the part played by the Chinese, Japanese and others, especially the Spanish race, is by no means small. We should not recall our origin, because it will be of no avail in strengthening our union, which should be our objective."

"In our modern education, too, we must inculcate ideas diametrically opposed to those of the past, in order to attain welfare and happiness in present life. Business, agriculture and industry are the activities that should attract our youth, who are now after politics and administrative careers."

"The Filipino people need three things for perfect harmony. They are liberty of conscience, English as a common language, and the establishment of true democracy."

AMERICAN ARTISTS TAKE SECOND RANK

At the annual spring exhibition of the society of French artists, which is an event at Paris, there were more American exhibitors than of any other foreign nation. Many of these are young artists who show promise, but several are men of reputation whose pictures are attracting considerable attention. Among the striking pictures was a portrait of Napoleon in his study, by Leconte de Nony.

Mr. Wright—You have read my new story. What do you think of it?
Miss Pert—To be perfectly candid, I think the covers are too far apart.

Patience—How would you like to go on a wedding trip in an airplane?
Patrice—Not me, I like tunnels too well.—Yonkers' Statesmen.

BRITISH TO BUILD FOUR ENORMOUS BATTLESHIPS

News has been received of the plans of the British government to build four battle ships larger and more powerful than anything heretofore afloat. These monsters will have a displacement of 55,000 tons and will be 950 feet long, which is 30 feet longer than the Leviathan, built by the Germans and at present the largest vessel afloat. These battleships are to carry 20-inch guns and a crew of about 2000 men, and they will be capable of making 35 or 36 knots with their great oil burning engines. Each vessel will represent an expense of about $50,000,000 and building is cheaper in England than in the United States. The six great battle cruisers America has under way will be dwarfed by comparison.

LOWER EXCHANGE HITS AMERICANS

The drop in the exchange rate through which a dollar buys fewer francs has brought a great inconvenience to many Americans in France. It was equivalent to a sudden rise of prices, and many found they were unable to afford the expensive apartments and hotel suites at summer resorts they had contracted for. Also many servants had to be dropped on account of the increased expense. The French people were merely amused at the situation, for they have long suffered from the unusual state of the exchange and the price of the dollar.

SOCIALISTS LOSE STORMY ELECTION

In the general elections for Italy participated in by several parties the main fight was between the socialists and constitutionalists. The latter party secured a large majority of members of parliament while the socialists lost about 50 members; the Catholic party also lost. Many disorders occurred. The Fascist, or extreme nationalists, who organized to combat communism, preserved order in the most turbulent districts and were largely responsible for the success of the constitutionalists. The struggle was bitter at Bologna, where the socialists elected 18 candidates and constitutionalists only one. A communist rising followed the election at Cremona and troops resorted to the use of machine-guns. At Rome the constitutionalists celebrated their victory by monster processions.

BELGIANS HONOR AMERICAN DEAD

When the four barges from Verdun reached Liege by way of the canal a military band played "The Star-Sprangled Banner," and the governor of the province and high officers of the army delivered addresses in honor of the 1000 heroes whose bodies were being returned to their native land. As the barges proceeded to Antwerp, Belgian cavalry formed an escort along the banks and civilians threw flowers on the flag-covered dead.

FIGHT OVER WORD "OBEY"

A lively scrap has been waged in the French senate over the bill introduced by Senator L. Martin to strike the word "obey" from the rule for wives in the civil code. A peculiar feature of the parliamentary battle is the fact that all of the married members want to retain the word while the bachelors are in favor of leaving it out!

NEVER RETAILS CABINET GOSSIP

"Silent Cal" Coolidge Has Little To Say And Sel- dom Says It.

By George R. Holmes,
(In Louisville Herald.)
Washington, May 28.—"Silent Cal" Coolidge they called him up in Massachusetts, where he used to be governor. And "Silent Cal" Coolidge he remains here in Washington as Vice President.

Being second in command of the administration ship has not changed "Silent Cal" to any noticeable extent. Perhaps he grooms himself a bit better—it's unbelievable the amount of social activity demanded of a V. P.—but otherwise he plods along about the same. Silence with him still is golden and he is wealthy beyond dreams of avarice.

Day by day he sits in what his predecessor, the inimitable "Tom" Marshall, was wont to facetiously term "The Cave of the Winds" otherwise the austere United States Senate. Oratory to the right of him, oratory to the left of him may volley and thunder, roll and crash, each and reverberate, but the slender, sandy-haired chap from "down East" sits quietly on his dais observing much and saying little.

The taciturnity of the new V. P. covers not only his constitutional duties, but extends also to his social activities and his participation in cabinet meetings, according to those who have had ample opportunities to observe him under all conditions.

When President Harding first proposed having a Vice President do something else besides preside over the Senate he created no little comment and in Washington. When it actually developed that the V. P. was to sit in at cabinet meetings and express himself on the affairs of state that are considered by that weighty body, there was a flutter of anticipation.

"At last," it was thought in congressional circles on the hill, "we will have some representation in the cabinet. We will have one of us sitting at the table, and at least we will know what those fellows talk about down at the other end of the avenue."

Great was the satisfaction thereat. It was thought that "Silent Cal" would be a "liaison" officer between the administrative and legislative branches of the government, that he would keep the senate informed about what was going on in the cabinet, and the cabinet informed about what was going on in the senate. In short, he was to be a go-between, a harmonizer and an all-around grand little fiver.

Has he been? He has not "Silent

Cal" has observed what went on in both places and kept his observations tightly locked in his own bosom. He has gone from the Senate to the cabinet room and from the cabinet room to the Senate with the same quietness and taciturnity that has always marked his demeanor in whatever he was doing.

Cabinet meetings are held on Tuesdays and Fridays. They usually occupy two hours—from 11 until 1. "Cal" is usually on time for the meeting. He sits at the foot of the table, facing the President. Occasionally he puts his ear in but usually he listens. When the meeting is over he glides—that is distinctly the word—he glides out gets into his car and returns to the Capitol. Arriving there he finds out what has been going on—the Senate having convened at 12 noon—and then he takes the chair. All this he does with a minimum of speech.

None of the reporters who cluster about the White House executive offices on cabinet days ever tackle the V. P. to find out what has been going on within the sacred chamber. They clear an aisle for him and let him slip thru unmolested. Occasionally a correspondent for some Boston paper will walk out with him, but the matters broached are usually far afield of what has been transpiring in the session.

Only one other man is so fortunate in this respect. He is Andrew W. Mellon, the secretary of the treasury. Mr. Mellon passes in and out of the side door of the White House usually walking on the balls of his feet and shunning inquirers. Mellon is cut from the same pattern as the V. P. It has been said of them since they came to Washington that if they ever got together in a closed room there would be a silence that one could hear for blocks.

Whether that be true or not, it is true that of all the new officials Washington is trying to learn to know, the most difficult are the Vice President and the secretary of the treasury.

SLACKER'S LAND SEIZED BY U. S.

Hope To Throw Bergdoll On His Own Resources In Germany.

Philadelphia, May 27.—All of the property in this city of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted draft evader and army deserter now in Germany, valued at about $50,000 was seized today by Col. Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian of the United States. It consists of real estate and money on deposit in four local banking institutions.

The property was held by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, Grover's mother, under a power of attorney.

The seizure, Colonel Miller announced, was by direction of the President and under the authority of the trading with the enemy act. It is the first seizure since June 1919. Seize Bergdoll's "Castle."

Colonel Miller announced that after Mrs. Bergdoll had testified before the congressional committee investigating the escape of Bergdoll from army sergeants a year ago, that she held a power of attorney for Grover, the mother was served with a formal demand for a detailed report of all her son's holdings and was notified that his property would be taken over by the government.

Accompanied by Maj. Vincent A. Carroll, his personal attorney, Colonel Miller seized the "Bergdoll Castle" on the outskirts of the city where Mrs. Bergdoll lives. This property was left to Grover by his father, Mrs. Bergdoll owning a residence in the city in a section locally known as "Brewertown."

"Well when do I have to move," said Mrs. Bergdoll when served with the seizure notice.

Sequester Monies.
Colonel Miller and Major Carroll then proceeded to the Peoples Trust Company, the Northwestern National Bank, the Real Estate Title Insurance and Trust Company, and Drexel & Co., and ordered the sequestration of all property still standing in the name of Mrs. Bergdoll until the interest of Grover in the funds in the banks could be ascertained.

President Schindler, of the Bergdoll Brewing Company, was served with a similar order tying up Grover's holdings in that company. All mortgages to Grover and the tenants in his properties will be served likewise, Colonel Miller announced.

It is expected the seizure will cut off all funds Grover may be receiving from the United States and throw him upon his own resources in Germany.

Can This Out and Take It With You.

HONOR GALLIENI IN DEATH

Gen. Gallieni, the military governor of Paris during the first part of the war, has been made a marshal of France notwithstanding the fact that he died long before the war closed. The decree was signed by President Millerand following its authorization by parliament. Gen. Gallieni was credited with a large share of credit in turning the tide of war at the battle of the Marne when he rushed all available troops to the front in Paris buses which he commandeered for the purpose.

Boston, May 28.—Sergt. M. Joubert, of the signal corps, of the 1st Joubert, while enroute to the movies, stepped on a piece of gum. He neglected to remove it from his shoe until after he had returned to his hotel. He then noticed what he supposed was a piece of paper firmly affixed to his shoe. After he had straightened it out he found it to be a $10 bill.

Best Remedy for Stomach Trouble

"I am pleased to have the opportunity to say a good word for Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Mrs. Mamie Bertel of Moberly, Mo. "I think they are the best remedy for stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation I have ever used. I have taken them off and on for two or three years and they always relieve indigestion, tone up the liver and make me feel fine."

If we live through the Dempsey-Carpenter training period, the dog days to follow and the campaign and election of the coming fall we will probably be here when the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock.

Our good friend, the Herald says
"Why so much rancor on the part of the Republican on the question of post office appointments?—etc. etc." Now, to be frank, we really do not feel that we are "rancoring" so very much, you know we were just airing ourselves a bit about the Horde of office-hungry Republicans, and the already pie-fed Democrats, whom you would endeavor to keep in for life.
And further down, the Herald says
"It is perhaps unfortunate, from their point of view, deplorable, that in so many local instances the Republican applicants seem to have failed in the test of merit. It is humiliating to think that their political brethren in other sections were more meritorious."
Yes, it has been thus all thru the whole business other sections have been spoken of, and Republican failures in taking the test for eligibility and appointment. That is getting very near to the old, old claim, that all the brains and learning were possessed by the Democratic party.
We are somewhat disappointed in having to wait so long for the concrete cases, but we rather imagine the readers of each of our papers would be just about as well satisfied to see this line of print replaced by Sunday school literature, horse racing or something else splitting the difference.

Again referring to the editorial columns of the Herald. No one ever said that it took 25 per cent of our taxes for administration. That's something you jump at just like the "Self Condemned" article. You will not even say it your self. Neither did we have the least desire or intention to become personal. In our former article we simply wrote our opinion of what the average fellow thinks of taxation, merely referring to the fact that no one could hope to get direct benefit to the amount of one hundred cents for each dollar paid, because of the expense connected with levy, collection etc. And the Herald said the article would have been more appropriately styled "Self Condemned." We had no thought of condemning or defending any political party or individual. Then when we referred to an imaginary case, wherein and wherewith the Editor of the Herald might be connected, we simply sought to put our finger on what we meant by overhead. That's all.
And there could possibly be no crime attached or implied. The amount set aside necessarily comes about in the regular course of events and methods, neither can they be much improved. The Herald Editor says
"What the Democrats want is not an impossible perfection but a reduction in overhead." Who is it that would not like to reduce, if possible. As a general proposition, there are none who know so well as to how to reduce as the fellow who refuses to fire his ammunition in the early stages of the "battle." Yes, the Herald accuses us of wanting to turn the little passages to partisan ends, when in fact and in truth not a line of the original article, as afore stated was written with a thought of politics, neither can anything be found therein which would bear out the statement, yet the Herald said it might properly be styled "Self Condemned."
If he did not mean in a political way then he certainly got rather close to us in a personal way. Perhaps it was like a certain Doctor's church, contained neither religion or politics and but very little sense, and it really left us "Self Condemned."

The I. C. Conductor and Flaggman

Raymond Robertson, a graduate just turned out of the High School was in town a few days back, carrying one of his hands in a sling. Naturally we asked him as to his trouble and he told us it was some form of poison. And Doug Williams told us in confidence, that Raymond ketched it from a plow handle. Doug further tells us how much more pizener a hoe handle is to Rob's hands than is a plow handle.

An Interview With Col. H. C. Whitehead, Remount Service, U. S. A.

"Despite our present-day motor-driven vehicles and trench warfare, the ratio of horses to men for the Allies was as one to four against one horse to each 3½ men during our own Civil War. And until the former conflict lasted a few weeks longer, the shortage of horses would have been woefully acute. The broad plans of the American Remount Association for selective breeding are, therefore, an important link in our chain of national defense."

The above is a statement by Col. H. C. Whitehead, of the U. S. Remount Purchasing and Breeding Service.

"NICK" 7/8 QUARTER STALLION

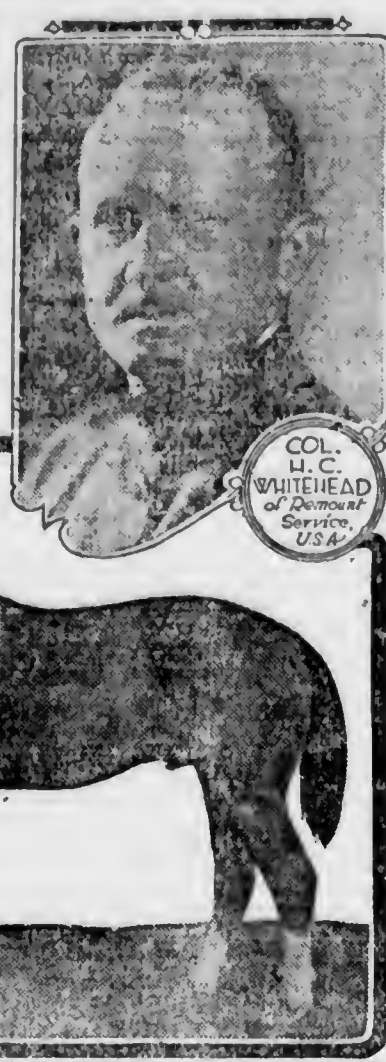

Seen at his headquarters in Lexington, Colonel Whitehead vouchsafed other highly enlightening information, not only about the breeding work in progress, but also of the utility of the thoroughbred horse; the intimate relation between racing and the maintenance and improvement of the standard of blood lines and the importance of the thoroughbred to the State of Kentucky in particular.

"The immediate concern of the American Remount Association," he said, "is to save riding and driving horses and the high-class race horse from extinction. We want to produce a truly American type of cavalry horse—a horse with breeding and quality, as well as bone and substance—a weight-carrier and the best general purpose horse known—a horse that will weigh from 1,000 to 1,250 pounds, standing from 15 hands, 1 inch, to 16 hands, tight mouth, with good gait and action—a walk, trot, gallop horse that can carry weight and follow the hounds across country—that the family can drive to church, and also one that can hold his own at hard work on the farm—a horse that can be used to advantage and economically any and everywhere, except in heavy draft."

"This type of horse has splendid looks, quality, action, and vigor—a wonderful all-purpose horse for the farmer and one that can be kept at a minimum cost."

"Almost every commercial and military use will be met by the progeny of this breeding plan, dependent primarily upon the size, quality and blood lines of the mares used in breeding."

"Among the stallions to be placed throughout the United States this spring will be over one hundred head of high-class registered thoroughbreds—big horses, with plenty of body, bone and substance. These stallions, placed in the stud through Government agencies, will be available to farmers and breeders at a minimum fee. The Government does not expect to make money, but to make it possible and feasible for the farmer and breeder to get the service of a high-class, approved stallion for their good mares; the object being to produce animals of real value and use that will earn their keep—bring a handsome profit when mature. We expect the progeny at maturity to make general-purpose horses—cavalry horses, riding and driving horses, show horses, hunters, race horses, polo ponies, depending largely upon the mares selected for breeding and the care selected in rearing colts. They will belong to the breeder—the Government will have no strings on them. The owner will be privileged to sell them to whomsoever he pleases at any time. They will be horses admirably adapted to work in both peace and war times.

"But the Government will depend upon them for its supply; and the importance of the horse to the modern army is to be fully realized by the comparison of figures already cited pertaining to the use of the horse in the last great war with those of his use during the Civil War."

"As regards thoroughbred horses racing, every practical horseman knows that it is, first and foremost, vitally necessary in order to test the quality of individual horses—it is the final acid test that goes to measure their value for breeding purposes, and is thus decisively instrumental in the work of preserving and improving the thoroughbred horse as the race upon which depends the preservation and improvement of all our other kinds of horses and mule mares."

"Meanwhile, the evolution of thoroughbred horse racing has given the world a great out-of-door sport—one that the world truly enjoys. If the attendance at our metropolitan race courses may be taken as evidence of popularity, and which, wherever properly conducted, is assuredly healthful and innocuous, insofar as, at least, as concerns its effects on the great majority of normal-minded citizens."

"The State of Kentucky is immensely the richer for her industry of breeding thoroughbred horses and its concomitant seasons of racing. Millions and millions of dollars are invested in property throughout the state as a result—nor is this taxable wealth confined to the holdings of millionaire enthusiasts whose establishments are located in the Bluegrass District, by any means."

"Many a Kentucky farmer is also a breeder of the thoroughbred—and often the male of a colt or filly nets him more than the products of a season's work on the farm."

"Undoubtedly the sport of racing thoroughbred horses is a tremendous business asset to the state. Facts such as, I daresay, the Kentucky Jockey Club readily can adduce in this connection very well might astound Kentuckians who have never considered the subject in its substantial and material aspects."

paying freight for shipping potatoes when rejection is a foregone conclusion, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In its study of shipments of potatoes on the principal markets, the market inspection service finds that late blight tuber rot, which is frequently followed by "flay soft rot," causes heavy losses. This disease is apparent at the time of loading, and the bad tubers can be sorted out and not shipped.

How To Obtain Customers For Parcel Post Trade.

For producers who wish to market by parcel post the most satisfactory way of finding customers is to write to friends, relatives, or acquaintances in cities, seeking their trade as specialists of the Bureau of Markets U. S. Department of Agriculture. Purchasers, on the other hand, often can locate reliable producers by correspondence with friends, relatives or acquaintances in the country. More than 75 per cent of the produce being marketed by parcel post in a number of cities in which investigations have been made is sent by persons who obtain their customers in this way.

Making business contact is less difficult between friends because there is an absence of the suspicion and distrust that sometimes is found between strangers. Many persons will not order farm produce from strangers because they do not know the conditions under which the articles are produced. It is said.

Although ways of obtaining customers are numerous, no method is so promising as that of working up a trade with or thru friends. This method of establishing business relationship is especially recommended for the general farmer who has a limited amount of produce. Those who wish to market a great deal of produce by parcel post may find it necessary to obtain customers by personally soliciting strangers or thru advertising in newspapers and by other public means. Another method is to write to friends in the city, asking for a list of acquaintances who would probably be interested in receiving table supplies by parcel post.

Confining Hen in Coop Reduces Loss of Chicks.

Chicks hatched during the winter should be brooded in a poultry house or shed while the outside weather conditions are unfavorable; after the weather becomes settled they should be reared in brood coops out of doors. It is best to make brood coops so that they can be closed at night to keep out cats, rats, and other animals and enough ventilation should be allowed so that the hen and chicks will have plenty of fresh air.

The hen should be confined in the coop until the chicks are weaned, while the chicks are allowed free range after they are a few days old. Where hens are allowed free range and have to forage for food for themselves and the chicks they often take the latter thru wet grass, where they may become chilled and die. Most of the feed the chicks get by foraging goes to keep up the heat of the body, whereas feed eaten by those that are with the hen that is confined produces more rapid growth, as the chicks do not have so much exercise.

In most broods there are one or two chicks that are weaker than the others, and if the hen is allowed free range the weaker ones often get behind and out of hearing of the mother's cluck and call. In most cases this results in the loss and death of these chicks, due to becoming chilled. If the hen is confined, the weaklings can always find shelter and heat under her, and after a few days may develop into strong, healthy chicks.

The loss in young chicks due to allowing the hen free range is undoubtedly large, say poultry specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. Chicks frequently have to be caught and put into their coops during sudden storms, as they are apt to huddle in some hole or corner where they may be drowned. Hens should be allowed to mother the chicks as long as they will brood them, although some hens commence to lay before the chicks are weaned.

Chilling Temperatures Stimulate Plant Growth.

Ripe blueberries were gathered in February, March and April in the greenhouses of the U. S. Department of Agriculture as a result of experiments in the stimulation of plant growth by a period of chilling.

These plants were the large hybrids developed from wild blueberries through 10 years of selection and breeding. The largest berries reached a diameter of over 3-4 inches.

At various times from midsummer to autumn the plants were placed in glass frames artificially chilled. After two or three months' chilling they were brought into a greenhouse and began growing and flowering at once, while similar plants that had not been through the chilling period continued dormant in the same greenhouse. Gardeners have applied the method in some degree to various plants, such as the lily-of-the-valley. It is only recently, however, that a department experimenter discovered that a period of chilling is a general requirement of northern plants.

Housecleaning Is Not Hard If This Program Is Adopted.

Housecleaning need not be the bugbear it has long been regarded in many households. If the work is carefully planned, if the kind of furnishings that are easy to keep clean are chosen and handled in the right way, and if provision is made for keeping all the dirt possible out of the house there will be no need for the upheavals that result in discomfort to the entire household. The following are the good rules by which to organize the housecleaning:

Keep dirt out of the house by cleaning the walks, steps, porches and slits regularly and often, by screening windows and doors near a ground, and by insisting on having muddy shoes and coats cleaned, or left outside.

Lessen the number of dust-collecting places, such as unnecessary cupboards, grooved and carved woodwork, floors with cracks, rough-finished walls, elaborately carved and upholstered furniture, superfluous draperies, and bric-a-brac.

Remove dirt frequently and systematically. This keeps the house and furnishings in better condition, and makes the need of heavy cleaning less frequent.

Clean by taking the dirt away, not by scattering it, to settle again elsewhere.

Do heavy cleaning a little at a time to avoid the hard work and discomforts of the old-fashioned spring and fall housecleaning.

Have a supply of good cleaning tools such as your work calls for, and keep them in good order.

Use water and cleaning agents sparingly because otherwise they may spoil finishes and weaken glue, paste, or cement.

Watch for troublesome insects and animals, and take prompt measures to get rid of them if they appear.

Make all the family help by leaving things where they belong, and in good condition.

These rules are given by the United States Department of Agriculture in a new Farmers' Bulletin, No. 1189, Housecleaning Made Easier.

Control and Eradication Of Hog Mites And Lice.

Lice and mange mites are the two principal kinds of external parasites affecting hogs, say experts of the United States Department of Agriculture. They are injurious to all classes of hogs but the greatest losses occur in pigs and poorly nourished hogs kept in insanitary quarters.

The losses are caused by irritation, and functional disturbances. Only one species of lice commonly affects hogs, and this parasite obtains its food by puncturing the skin of the host and sucking blood. It can be eradicated by hand application, spraying, medicated hog wallows, and dipping. Dipping is the best method of applying treatment. Crude petroleum and tar creosote dips are effective remedies.

Two species of mange mites commonly affect hogs. The nature and habits of these mites, the symptoms caused by each species, and the methods of control and eradication are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1985, Hog Lice and Mange. Methods of Control and Eradication, issued by the department, and sent free on request. Crude petroleum and lime sulphur dips are effective remedies for common or sarcoptic mange of hogs.

Plans for hog wallows and dipping plants, together with directions for building them and for dipping hogs, are given in the bulletin.

Keep Garden Free Of Trash.

Neatness, cleanliness, and order in the garden help in the fight against insects and diseases, specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture emphasize. As a general rule, the residue of the garden, such as cornstalks, tomato vines, potato tops etc., should be burned. Do this promptly, so that insects and disease spores may not be harbored in the rubbish. Just as soon as any crop is gathered, remove the trash, spade up the ground, and plant something else. Keep the garden free from weeds at all times, and this can best be done by frequent cultivation which destroys the weed seeds as soon as they sprout.

FARM DEPARTMENT.

Profit In Building Partitions In Stock Cows.

A little time and labor, possibly a little money, expended in building a strong partition to separate the big animals from the small ones in a mixed carload of live stock frequently saves the shipper from a serious loss on the consignment, say specialists of the Bureau of Markets, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The smaller animals such as hogs, lambs, goats, and sheep, are always in danger of injury from the larger animals and this is especially true when the car is overcrowded.

Crippled animals mean a loss to the shipper for they bring prices considerably below the regular market price for sound stock. Dead animals bring still less—in the case of hogs only about 50 to 75 cents per hundred pounds for grease. There is always the danger, too, of the smaller stock becoming bruised, through being jostled and kicked by the larger ones. Bruises make a carcass less valuable, as the meat inspectors in the slaughterhouses cut out all bruised spots. Meat thus mutilated is sold at cheaper grades, the depreciation depending upon how much cutting was necessary. The buyers in the stockyards know this, of course, and, consequently, pay less for animals that show bruises or seem likely to have suffered in this way.

Buyers are afraid of bruised stock and for this reason are suspicious of small animals arriving at the stockyards in a mixed carload where the larger animals are not partitioned off. Such injuries are difficult to detect in the live animal, but when small stock, such as calves and lambs arrive in a badly soiled condition buyers usually suspect they have been trampled and bruised by larger animals, and as a rule the buyers play safe by paying less money for such stock.

BIG U. S. AIRSHIP TO CROSS OCEAN

London, May 28. Construction of the airship R-38 has been completed at Bedford. It is practically certain that the crew will be able to fly the vessel to America this summer. The trials will begin June 7. Experts say that the American crew will need at least a hundred hours in the air before they venture on the Atlantic. They have already had a lot of experience aboard the R-32 and the R-34 but inasmuch as the R-38 is much bigger they will require exhaustive training in the handling of their own ship before they emulate the R-34.

The new American airship is easily the biggest ever built. It is nearly one-third larger than the R-34. The length is about 800 feet and the cubic capacity nearly three million feet. The maximum is seventy-five miles an hour but the cruising speed at which she will probably cross the Atlantic in the face of a wind, will be sixty miles.

The trials will include a sixty-hour flight over the North Sea. The ship will be anchored to a new mooring mast for safety from destruction by sudden gales.

Walker, the piano tuner had tuned the piano and found it in good condition. A few days later he received a letter from the owner of the piano stating that it had not been properly tuned. The tuner made another trip and tested every note, only to find no fault with the instrument. He told the lady so.

"Yes," she said. "It does seem all right doesn't it, when you play on it, but as soon as I begin to sing it gets all out of tune."

DIVORCE MILLS GRIND EAST

A divorce epidemic has spread over Germany statistics showing one divorce to every eight marriages. In most of the cases the woman is the defendant, and the charge is breach of the marriage vows. Hasty war marriages with long absences of the husbands are ascribed as a leading cause, but there is also noted a general feeling of independence among women and a trend toward pleasure and luxury with a lack of moral restraint.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, it taken internally and acts on the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

I was constipated and knew it was indigestion and inactive liver. I began the use of Black-Draught, night and morning, and it sure is splendid and certainly gives relief."

EVERYBODY SEES A CHANGE IN FATHER

Grateful Son Says His Father Looks Like a Different Man Since Taking Tanlac.

"My father has suffered from chronic stomach trouble for over twenty years and has paid out thousands of dollars for medicines and doctors," said G. W. Slayton, a well-known Cobb County farmer, living a short distance out of Atlanta, Ga.

"We tried nearly everything trying to cure him and he went off to the Springs, thinking maybe the water might help him but it just looked like nothing would reach his trouble. Then he tried dieting and lived on liquid food until he almost starved, but even that failed to do him any good and he just kept going from bad to worse.

"I don't guess there ever was a case as stubborn as his and if there ever was a confirmed dyspeptic, he was one of them and I guess he would have been one yet if it hadn't been for this Tanlac.

"The first we heard of this medicine was when my father saw an advertisement in the papers from parties he knew in Tennessee, who were friends of his and he knew what they said about it was the truth so he got it right away and began taking it. Well, sir, it acted just like magic—everybody noticed the change in father. Why, he is just like a different man and sits down to the table and eats like a farm-hand. Only yesterday he ate pork and turnips for his dinner and ate so much we were actually afraid he was going to over-do the thing but he laughed and said nothing hurt him now and that he was hungry and expected to eat and make up for lost time.

"Now, when a medicine will do things like that I think people ought to know about it and I want to say right now that I would not give one bottle of Tanlac for all the other medicines and health resorts in the country put together."

WHEAT, WITH OTHER CEREALS MAKE GAINS

Chicago, June 1.—Wheat advanced readily in price today influenced for the most part by absence of any aggressive selling. Recent demand from exporters, both for new and old wheat had a deterrent effect on bears and so, too, did smallness of the domestic visible supply. Beside crop reports remained inauspicious. Opening quotations, which varied from 1/2c to 1 1/2c higher, with July $1.29 1/4 to $1.30 were followed by a decided further upturn.

Subsequently steep advances were made, estimates that the winter crop would not exceed 599,000,000 bushels being construed as decidedly favorable to the buying side. France and Germany and seaboard domestic millers were said to have purchased more or less. The close was strong 8 1/4c to 8 3/4c net higher, at $1.37 to $1.37 1/4 for July.

Corn was firmer in sympathy with wheat. After opening 1/4c to 3/4c higher, including July at 65 to 65 1/2c, the market hardened still more.

Later the market developed additional strength owing to expected falling off in receipts and to prospective large shipments from Chicago to the East. Prices closed firm, 1 7/8c to 2 1/4c net higher, with July at 66 5/8c to 66 3/4c.

Oats reflected the course of other cereals, starting 1-8c to 3-8c up, July 41 1-8c and later making a slight additional gain.
Higher hog values tended to lift provisions.

BEADS ODDLY STRUNG

(By I. D. Claire.)

I hereby announce and declare my sincere, unreserved and everlasting approval of the dear women's styles in clothing, whether such styles run to furs and flounces or to fig leaves and blouses, and I respectfully ask them to bear clearly in mind this declaration and contrast it with Fluke's carping criticism when setting on the jury hearing Fluke's 20,000 yen damage suit against me, on account of the alleged forked tail mooncasin story.

I can understand why Mack Cook and Arthur Kirk followed the sheriff on his raid on that moonshine distillery, but I am at a loss to account for how Bratch got off without J. I. and Fluke.

Collector Lucas stands to lose a mighty good deputy unless he revises office hours. I wouldn't particularly complain about knocking off at four in the afternoon, but it is a darned outrage to require a twelve o'clock man to report for duty at 8:30 in the morning.

Remembering as how folks give testimonials to dealers in patented and proprietary medicines, I have decided to give one to Dr. Tappan on his Ingersoll watches. I have an Ingersoll bought of the doctor May 18, 1918, as shown by the date inside the lid, and it is keeping better time with age. The only decrepity I notice is that I have to wind it four times a day. I set the alarm clock to go at two in the morning to arouse me for the early morning winding, and the watch has not lost four seconds in forty days. The family complained a little about the disturbance by the alarm clock at first, but they are getting used to it now. Why, my Ingersoll has become so famous as a timekeeper that when the aurora borealis a couple of weeks ago disturbed the wires so he could not get the time from Washington the janitor at the City Hall called me a number of times on the telephone to get the time by which to set the city clock.

Prohibition has reached the newspaper joke stage, which means it is going the way of the free coinage of silver and the league of nations. The man who dares to venture the prediction that the world is going to move on much in the same old way may have to wait a season for his verification, but he will get it by and by.

The cold storage houses are at last forced to disgorge, and the bottom has dropped out of the price of butter and eggs, and economic law brings another bunch of profiteers to account.

The press is training its guns on the professional reformers and large additions to the army of the unemployed will result.

In the midst of the multitude, where human beings appear no more than ciphers in a sum, one reflects with envy on the neighborly feeling and friendly fellowship of rural and village life. And yet it is a paradox that one must live in the impersonal atmosphere of the crowded center to appreciate the charm of isolated life.

THE FAMILY.

Illinois Central System Calls Attention To Things The Public Does Not See

The public is accustomed to see passenger and freight trains arrive at stations and depart from stations and travel between intermediate points on the railway, performing a necessary service without which almost all commerce would be paralyzed. It seldom gets a glimpse behind the scenes and realizes the magnitude and diversification of railway operation.

The public sees an engineer and a fireman in charge of a locomotive—a conductor and brakeman in charge of a train. It sees comparatively little of all there is back of the actual running of a train—the executive and general officers, the heads of departments, the division officers, the train dispatchers, the signal maintainers, the foreman, the skilled and unskilled laborers, the shopmen, the track walkers, the miners producing the coal, the workers producing the steel, the woodmen producing the ties and the plants where they are treated with preservative chemicals, the mills producing the lumber, the refineries producing the lubricants, the rock quarries and rock crushers, the gravel pits and steam shovels, and the thousand and one other operations which enter into the production of railway transportation.

Few outside of those whose business it is to do so ever examine the anatomy of a modern locomotive, a passenger coach, a refrigerator car or an ordinary freight car. A modern locomotive contains more than 4,200 parts, not including rivets and bolts, all of which must be inspected daily and kept in perfect condition, some requiring the constant attention of highly specialized experts. For example, the lighting system is cared for by a corps of trained electricians, the superheater attachment is looked after by specialists, the boiler requires the attention of expert boiler makers, the separate and distinct engine which operates the reversing mechanism must have special and constant attention and the airbrake system also demands the attention of experts.

A modern all-steel passenger coach, exclusive of bolts, rivets, screws, nuts, washers and nails, has more than 2,000 parts. The wheels, trucks, airbrakes and draw gear require constant inspection and special attention. The dynamo which generates electricity for lighting the coach when the train is running, also storing the batteries to provide lighting when the train is standing, must be carefully handled. The same is true of many other parts. The single item of cleaning and ventilating passenger coaches runs into large figures.

A modern refrigerator car has more than 1,500 parts. Perfect insulation must be maintained and the car must be kept absolutely clean. The ice boxes and many other parts require constant attention.

The ordinary box car has more than 500 parts which must be regularly and constantly inspected and kept in safe condition. Just as a chain is as strong as its weakest link, the safety of a train is gauged by the weakest car in the train.

The men who actually operate the trains on the Illinois Central System compose a comparatively small proportion of the more than 50,000 employees back of them.

One out of every eleven persons in the United States depends directly upon the railways for a living counting one worker to every five persons.

Railway prosperity is necessary to national prosperity. Anything that injures the railways also injures the public. Anything that helps the railways helps the public.

The railways consume 28 per cent of all the bituminous coal produced in the United States. They consume 25 per cent of all the steel produced in the United States. They consume 18 per cent of all the timber and lumber produced in the United States. They are also large users of lubricating oils, and other commodities.

The Illinois Central, like other railways, is a citizen of each town on its lines. It pays taxes and means as much to the life of each community as any other business concern in the community. It has but one thing to sell—transportation. When you buy that transportation, remember the investment in the property that makes it possible to run the train that furnishes you with service, and remember the great expense back of running that train, aside from the salaries of the engineers and trainmen whom you see and the agent with whom you deal.

The railways do not claim perfection. Every railway in the United States has locomotives and cars that should be replaced by better ones; machinery and appliances that should be replaced by later and better models; steel rails that should be replaced by heavier ones; track that should be provided with better ballast; terminals that should be enlarged. The railways are striving to overcome these deficiencies. They are succeeding gradually. They are fighting for the privilege of serving you—the public. They ask no advantage of any kind. They ask only a square deal.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
